Singapore Airlines introduces new Recaro seats for the A380

SCHWAEBISCH HALL, Germany – By the end of the current year, Recaro Aircraft Seating's CL3710 will be lifting off on Singapore Airlines' Airbus A380. From 2018, the economy class seat will also be used on the airline's Boeing 787-10 and Airbus A350 aircraft. The more than 18,000 comfortable lightweight seats have been customized and adapted to Singapore Airlines distinctive cabin design.

The highly-customized seat back and special padding ensure exceptional passenger comfort. The unique seat features noteworthy equipment such as an amenity holder for a mobile phone or eyeglasses below the in-flight entertainment monitor and a vanity mirror integrated into the back of the tray table. In addition to the main literature pocket, there are also separate pockets for personal items.

"We are proud that our CL3710 economy class seat is now being used on the Singapore Airlines fleet. As a German aircraft seat manufacturer and world market leader in economy class seats, we are delighted to once again partner with Singapore Airlines and to support the airline with a very unique seat to deliver the best service," said Dr. Mark Hiller, Chief Executive Officer and
